AMERICAN BANKING INSTITUTE IN SESSION

1000 Delegates Register for Annual Convention at Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 14.—To educate the bank employee to a higher degree of efficiency, and to bring home to the public that the men in the banks are fully capable of handling the public's funds, are the purposes of the American Banking Institute, which opens its annual convention here today, Edwin V. Krick of San Francisco, president, said.

Krick said bank employees today were far more competent and efficient than 25 years ago, largely because of the courses offered by the Institute. A few years ago, he continued, only the employees of banks in the larger cities were able to avail themselves of the courses offered by the Institute, but now they are being taken to the country districts so all bank employees can take them.

More than 1000 delegates from all parts of the country have registered for the convention and it is expected that nearly 2000 will have registered before the sessions end. Krick's annual address today was a review of the year's work. Convention headquarters resembled a political convention, placards of various candidates for office being posted about. Bruce Baird of New Orleans, vice president, will automatically succeed to the presidency. The fight is over the vice presidency. Henry J. Mergier of Cincinnati and Paul B. Detwiler, Philadelphia, being candidates.

George Klan Sues for Million.
By the Associated Press.
PAWKUSKA, Ok., July 14.—Sued for $1,000,000 damages was filed in the State District Court here yesterday by the Ku Klux Klan of Georgia against the Ku Klux Klan of Oklahoma, alleging the Oklahoma organization was improperly using the name Ku Klux Klan, its regalia, letter heads and application blanks. An accounting of the Oklahoma Klan's finances and an injunction to bar it from using the name "Klan" is sought. Attorneys representing the Georgia corporation, asserted the action is not directed against the regular Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma, but against an organization formed Nov. 8, 1924, near Shidler, Ok.

U. S. Women at Peace Session.
By the Associated Press.
INNESBRUCK, Austria, July 14.—In welcoming the delegates to the conference of the International League of Peace and Freedom, which opened here Saturday, the Austrian director, Mme. Hirt, said that women, because they are naturally humane, might claim the right to supplement, even replace, if necessary, men's political activity, as men apparently stray into the ways of violence and destruction. Four American women are among the 38 delegates.

RUM-RUNNER LAUNCH "ASP"

TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

Vessel Was Seized at East Side Ferry Landing Last December With $40,000 Cargo of Liquor.

The rum-runner, "Asp," a 75-foot gasoline launch, which was seized by Deputy Sheriffs on Dec. 13 at the Illinois landing of the old Sidney street ferry, together with a $40,000 cargo of fine liquors, will be sold at public auction at 1 p. m. tomorrow at the dock of the Cahokia Light and Power plant. Six members of the crew were fined $500 each upon plea of guilt.

to in the County Court, and since no one has asserted ownership of the boat, it was condemned by County Judge Weber to be sold under the State dry law. In addition to the members of the crew, John K. Johnson of East St. Louis was named to show cause why the launch should not be sold.

The cost of keeping an armed guard of special deputies on the "Asp" has been $2100, which will be paid from the proceeds of the sale. Rivermen valued the boat at $25,000. Members of the crew said the "Asp" was used as a submarine chaser during the war and received her liquor cargo outside the 12-mile limit off New Orleans.

The Seal

There are two distinct families of seals; the earless or true seals and the eared seals. Those species having a dense coat of short, soft fur under the stiff, long hairs that form the outer covering of both families, are called Fur seals; and those which do not possess this under fur are known as hair seals. The cubs of the common and Greenland varieties of hair seals are called wool seals until they lose the woolly white coat with which they are born. All the true seals are hair seals; and with the exception of Australian, Californian, Hooker's, Northern and Patagonian hair seals, all the eared seals are Fur seals. The true seals are known as sea dogs, the eared hair seals as sea lions and the Fur seals as sea bears.

Stomach Remedy A Fast Seller DARE'S MENTHA PEPSIN

Six Thousand Bottles Sold in One New Jersey Town Last Year. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Stores Declare Money Back if One Bottle Doesn't Make Any Stomach Sufferer Rejoice.

At last the way has been found to combine Pepsin with other corrective stomach agents so that it will do the most good in the shortest possible time.

Why bother with slow actors when one teaspoonful of this splendid and pleasant liquid remedy will cause gas, bloating, heaviness, heartburn or any upset condition of the stomach to speedily vanish?

And why should any man or woman suffer another hour with irritable, empty stomach misery when the remedy that acts almost instantly can be easily procured?

But there is more to say about this remarkable remedy—something that will interest thousands of despondent people. Dare's Mentha Pepsin not only quickly relieves stomach distress, but it also conquers nervous indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis, and puts an end to distressing, nervous headache, sleeplessness and despondency which caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

Dare's Mentha Pepsin is pleasant to take, has a delightfully refreshing taste, and after it has put your stomach in a clean and healthy condition, just wonder how much better you look and feel, for besides correcting stomach disorders it cures nervousness, indigestion, dyspepsia and gastritis, and puts an end to distressing, nervous headache, sleeplessness and despondency which caused by chronic stomach disturbance.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Taking cognizance of petitions of Western railroads for rate increases, the Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered a special inquiry into the agricultural and transportation situation in the West.

The hearings will begin at Chicago Sept. 1, before Chairman Atchison of the commission. Petitions for increases were filed as briefs in answer to the commission's inquiry under the Hoch-Smith Congressional resolution, which directed a revision of the general structure if the commission found such a step necessary.

The commission decided it should first deal with the Western district for these reasons:

"To determine what products of agriculture, including livestock, are affected by depression.

"To determine what, if any, reductions may lawfully be effected on the rates or charges on products of agriculture.

"To determine whether any rates, fares or charges, either on particular classes or kinds of commodities or classes of traffic in particular sections, or between particular localities in the Western district, or otherwise may lawfully be authorized or required to be increased, and if so to what extent in order to compensate for such rate reductions, if any, as may be found proper.

"To determine whether any rates, fares, or charges . . . may lawfully be authorized to be increased . . . in order to effect such increases in the revenues of Western carriers as may be found proper."

State commissions are co-operating in the inquiry, but the notice today invited representatives of all other interests to participate. Carriers were notified to be ready to go on at the first hearing, submitting their statistics of operations, showing earnings and traffic since 1923.

LEMON JUICE BEST TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It cannot irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It cannot be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

CITY LAW DEPARTMENT
REORGANIZATION PLAN

Higher-Priced Talent in Rate Increase Cases Among Recommendations Made.

Public utility companies, which hire high-priced legal talent when they go before the State Public Service Commission to request rate increases, have been opposed in the past by lawyers less high-priced, salaried members of the City Coun-cilor's staff. Sometimes it has seemed that this made a difference in the outcome of a case.
A new plan, which will enable the city to have the services of able and high-priced lawyers in such cases, has been recommended by the committee of lawyers and Judges which recently made a survey of the City Law Department.
Mayor Miller has sent the committee's report to City Counselor Seati, and has asked him to prepare ordinances to be sent to the Board of Aldermen in the fall, to make the changes proposed.

The proposal is that the city shall be authorized to retain outside counsel for public utility rate cases, paying as a corporate client would do. It is also proposed that one of the associate city counselors shall be detailed to public utility work, and shall act as assistant to such special counsel.

Another Proposal.
Another proposal for engaging part-time services of experts, not on the regular payroll of the Law Department, is made in connection with the appraisal work of the condemnation division. The work of the condemnation division is especially important at present, because of condemnation work made necessary by the bond issue improvements.

The city paid out $62,350 for appraisals last year, the committee stated, and the committee believes that the plan of employing experts would mean a saving.
The committee recommended that the City Counselor should receive $10,000 a year, instead of the present salary of $8,000, and that his duties should be largely supervisory and executive. The first associate, it is recommended, should receive $8,000, and should prepare opinions and follow up appeals.

The second and third associates, at $6,000 and $5,000, should try cases and prepare pleadings. The fourth associate should supervise taking of depositions, examine contracts, prepare ordinances and furnish legal advice to the police department. The fifth associate would handle the matters before the Public Service Commission.
Employment of two special research attorneys, at $2,500 each, is recommended, for examining authorities and briefing law points, and to handle city cases in justice courts, also to investigate the facts as to relief bills.

Condemnation Division.
In the condemnation division, the committee recommends that six lawyers be engaged, one at $6,000, the others at not less than $5,000 each, and that cases be assigned among them by the City Counselor. Three assistant attorneys at not less than $2,500 a year each, and a chief of the clerical staff at not less than $3,000 are recommended. An adequate staff of stenographers and clerks is demanded, with temporary employees as needed.

The proposed changes, it is estimated, would add about $30,000 a year to the department's payroll, and it is held that greatly increased efficiency would result.
Former City Counselor Henry S.
Caulfield was chairman of the recommendations, and other members were Judge Dugas of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, Circuit Judge
Hamilton and Killoreen, Truman Post Young, J. W. Jamison and Nat S. Brown.

A seven-ton truck, driven by Lee Shields, 25 years old, a negro, 2905 Morgan street, crashed into the rear of a Ford touring car at Seventh street and Russell avenue late yesterday, causing it to collide with another machine which, in turn, struck a motor cycle, resulting in seven persons being injured.

Those injured, all of whom suffered cuts and bruises of the body, were: Martin Bohrer, 24, 311 Degenhardt avenue, St. Louis County; Misses Elizabeth and Alma Prudlidge, 4139A Nebraska avenue; John Rau, 47, 2734 Osceola street; Joseph Ellsworth, 34, 335 Louisiana avenue, St. Louis County; his wife, May, and son Albert, 7, 335 Louisiana avenue, St. Louis County; Charles Romano, 33, McLaran Station, St. Louis County, lacerations of the arm.

Clark H. Bokeman Jr., 3631 Lee avenue, suffered concussion of the brain and a lacerated scalp, and his brother, Albert, 2, suffered cuts and bruises of the body at 5:20 p. m. yesterday when an automobile driven by their father collided with another machine on East drive in O'Fallon Park. The driver of the other machine, William Higgins of 1823A East Prairie avenue, was arrested.

Charles Romano, 33, a farmer residing at McLaran Station, St. Louis County, suffered lacerations of the arm last night when his Ford truck was struck by a freight car as he was crossing railroad tracks at O'Fallon and Collins streets. The truck was demolished.

SAINT LOUIS MAN WAS AN EPILEPTIC ELEVEN YEARS

Says Herb Juice Is the Only Medicine That He Ever Found to Relieve
this Condition

MR. FRED KEJATH

"I have suffered for eleven years as an epileptic, to say nothing of the severe case of stomach trouble, and your Herb Juice is positively the only medicine that I have ever found to give me relief from these ailments," said Mr. Fred Kejath, who resides at 5118 Bulwer Ave., Saint Louis, Mo., while in conversation with the Herb Juice man a few days ago.

Continuing, Mr. Kejath said, "I had just about given up hope of ever finding anything to relieve my condition, as I had tried so many different remedies and spent so much money that I figured it useless. After saying I would have sharp cutting pains around my heart and in the pit of my stomach caused by gastritis. My kidneys were in such a condition that I had to be up and down all night. In addition to this I had to take strong physics to move my bowels. It seemed that when I was suffering from constipation my epileptic condition was so much worse. But try as I would I could never find anything to regulate my bowels or relieve me of those dreadful gas pains, until I tried your remarkable Herb Juice.

"I am now on my fourth bottle of Herb Juice, and I am a new man. My ailments have disappeared and I feel better today than I have in eleven years. My bowels act regularly, am never troubled any more with pains around my heart from gas and my digestion is wonderful. It has now been six or seven weeks since I felt the epileptic, and I don't feel like I have ever been sick. Your Herb Juice is without a doubt the most remarkable medicine that I have ever used. And nothing will give me more pleasure than to say a good word for it to everyone I know."

Hundreds are now calling daily to see the Herb Juice man, who has established headquarters at Judge & Dolph Drug Co., 514 Washington Ave., giving statements for publication and praising Herb Juice that their friends may be induced to try the great remedy which is relieving so many sufferers in Saint Louis.

BENEFIT GAME WILL SWELL WIDOWS' FUND
Money Being Raised for Families of Two Men Who Were Slain by Robbers.

With a view to adding several thousand dollars to the relief fund which is being raised for the widows and children of Patrolman John H. Grogan and Harvey Emmett, business men of Washington avenue are arranging a doubleheader benefit baseball game to be played at St. Louis University Field, Grand boulevard and Lacleda avenue, next Saturday afternoon.

Patrolman Grogan and Hammett, an employee of the Humane Society of Missouri, were shot and killed by robbers on the afternoon of July 3 when Grogan attempted to frustrate a holdup of the H. S.
Collins Printing Co., 1531 Washington, and Hammett, who was passing by, went to his assistance.
Grogan left a widow and four dependent children and Hammett a widow and an 8-year-old son in straitened circumstances.

Police Band to Play.
The baseball games, the first of which will start at 2 p. m., will be played by four teams of the International Shoe Co., in the Independent League. A police band will furnish music for the occasion and other special entertainment features are being arranged through the Police Department, which is co-operating in the undertaking.

Those in charge of ticket sales said yesterday about 8000 tickets had been sold at 50 cents each and that total receipts of $4000 are expected. Of the proceeds, the first $4750 will go to the family of Hammett and the remainder will be divided equally between the families.
This method of division was arranged because of the fact that Officer Grogan's family will receive $3000 from the Police Relief Association and a year's salary of a patrolman, $1740, from the Police Department, in addition to funds raised by contribution.

According to Festus J. Wade Jr., who is in charge of the collection of funds for the families, the total of contributions now stands at $5715.45, and later donations are expected to swell this amount to a considerably larger figure. In the division of this fund also, the first $4740 will go to Hammett's widow and the remainder will be divided equally.

Contributions at Opera.
The fund was increased by $1494.96 through contributions of Municipal Opera patrons last Friday and Saturday nights, the collection baskets yielding $793.47 on Friday and $701.49 Saturday. Two thousand letters also have been sent out to business men requesting contributions. Funds collected by policemen in the various districts will be turned over by the district captains at the end of the month. These will represent chiefly the offerings of policemen themselves and are expected to total around $1800.

A special benefit for the widow and child of Hammett will be a dance which is to be held at Concordia Turnverein Hall, 1301 Arsenal street, on the evening of July 5 by the Chicago Night Hawks.
This is a musical organization with which Hammett was formerly affiliated. The hall will be donated free of charge and other entertainment features are planned. Admission will be 50 cents and tickets will be on sale at Police Headquarters or can be obtained by telephoning Grand 6923M.

EX-CONVICTS PUT TO WORK

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, July 14.—
Since the State Supreme Court recently held unconstitutional a law requiring convicts released from the State penitentiary to leave Jefferson City and not return to Cole or Callaway counties, local police have attempted to rid the capital of undesirable characters by arresting them on vagrancy charges and putting them to work cutting weeds or working on the streets.
The customary police court sentence is 15 days at weed eradication.
While the police consider the plan a good one, it has not worked well in practice. The first gang of nine arrests the latter part of last week escaped within a few hours after being sent out with a guard. Another gang of 13 ex-convicts and tramps was rounded up yesterday and put to work.

How Jesse James Learned William Quantrill and Leaders in the Guerrilla War—a Sketch of the Done on the Missouri
Young Jesse Rode With Took to Outlawry as
From the Schooling
Gave Him.

CHAPTER II.

PARTLY to account for Jesse James and his outlaw career and associates, it is necessary to delve into history and excavate certain crimson characters whose names still flash fiercely from the otherwise dusty archives of the Civil War on the Missouri-Kansas border. Like all the members of the post-war bandit crew were Jim Cummins, "the bullets and their bones are cold." But they survive in the nightmare memories of old men and women who in childhood or youth had high and horrid reason to shudder when their names were spoken.

Chief amongst these men of blood and horror whose records we are briefly to examine were William C. Quantrill, William F. Anderson and George Todd. To most of those who are aware that such men once existed the first and second of the trio are known as "Charley Quantrill" and "Bloody Bill" Anderson. These guerrilla chieftains were the wartime tutors of the two Jameses, two of the four Youngers, Jim Cummins and several of the other young men of Western Missouri who became outlaws on the border shortly after the war was ended for the rest of its millions of participants throughout the great republic.

The youths who were graduated from war banditry into civic banditry served under these leaders of Confederate forces—both irregular and regular—in Kansas and Missouri, chiefly in the latter State. Guerrilla warfare schooled them in violence. Some of them for about three years, others for perhaps a year and a half, and one or two for a few months only, rode and fought, raided and robbed, slew and looted with Quantrill or Anderson or Todd. Some of the bandits-to-be served under each of the guerrilla Captains, Quantrill during the greater part of the war being supreme chief of the rough-riding outfit. Quantrill quarreled with his Lieutenants, or they with him, and long before the conflict closed Bill Anderson broke away to lead a guerrilla outfit of his own, and toward the end George Todd superseded Quantrill in chief command.

Let us take up first the man Quantrill, whose name 58 years after his death from wounds inflicted by Federal guerrillas in Kentucky still is misspelled "Quantrell" in most of the newspapers that give him occasional mention, and in all of the lurid fictions published between covers and purporting each to be the true story of the terrible rough rider from Kansas. There never was a Charles W. Quantrell. There was a William Clark Quantrill, who wrote his name in blood upon the maps of several states. His only authentic biographer is Mr. William Elsey Connelley, secretary of the Kansas State Historical Society, by birth and breeding a Kentucky mountaineer. In the preface to his "Quantrill and the Border Wars," Mr. Connelley calls Quantrill "the bloodiest man known to the annals of America." On the closing pages of his valuable volume the Kansas historian writes of Quantrill:

"Of the Civil War in America he was the bloodiest man. Of the border he was the scourge and terror. Idolized for his ferocious blood-madness, he forgot his mother. Embarked on savagery, he forgot his native land. Professing allegiance to an alien cause, he brought upon a fair land fire and sword, desolation and woe. To manifest a zeal he did not feel, he resorted to slander, betrayed his companions and aided in their murder. With red hands he gave false cities to torch and pillage, and revealed in the groans and cries of the helpless and innocent victims of his ruthless and inhuman crimes."

"That indictment stands upon the record as reconstructed by the painstaking labors of Mr. Connelley. His accumulation of evidence, his documentary and verbal utterances, undermines the structure of misrepresentation which since the war has housed the memory of C. Quantrill as a 'hero.' The very temple of the hero-worship is demolished, fallen roof and all, leaving only a sorry residue of dried-up gore and crumbling bones to indicate what once was a chamber created by America's Civil

A UNIQUE CHAPTER OF AMERICAN HISTORY

"The Rise and Fall of Jesse James"

By ROBERTUS LOVE.

How Jesse James Learned His Profession From William Quantrill and Bill Anderson, Bloody Leaders in the Guerilla Raids During the Civil War—a Sketch of the Black Deeds That Were Done on the Missouri-Kansas Border When Young Jesse Rode With the Guerillas—How He Took to Outlawry as a Post-Graduate Course From the Schooling Quantrill and Anderson Gave Him.

CHAPTER II.
PARTLY to account for Jesse James and his outlaw career and associates, it is necessary to delve into history and excavate certain criminal characters whose names still flash fiercely from the otherwise dusty archives of the Civil War on the Missouri-Kansas border. Like all the members of the post-war bandit crew save Jim Cummins, "his bullets and their bones are cold." But they survive in the nightmare memories of old men and women who in childhood or youth had high and horrid reason to shudder when their names were spoken.

Chief amongst these men of blood and horror whose records we are briefly to examine were William C. Quantrill, William F. Anderson and George Todd. Two of those who are aware that such men once existed: the first and second of the trio are known as "Charley Quantrell" and "Bloody Bill" Anderson. These guerrilla chieftains were the wartime tutors of the two Jameses, and of the four Youngers, Jim Cummins and several of the other young men of Western Missouri who became outlaws on the border shortly after the war ended for the rest of its millions of participants throughout the great republic.

The youths who were graduated from war banditry into civil banditry served under these leaders of Confederate forces—both irregular and regular—in Kansas and Missouri, chiefly in the latter State. Guerrilla warfare schooled them in violence. Some of them for about three years, some for one and a half, and one for a few months only, rode and fought, raided and robbed, slew and looted with Quantrill or Anderson or Todd. Some of the bandits-to-be served under each of the guerrilla captains, Quantrill during the greater part of the war being supreme chief of the rough-riding outfit. Quantrill quarreled with his Lieutenants, or they with him, and long before the conflict closed Bill Anderson broke away to lead a guerrilla outfit of his own, and toward the end George Todd superseded Quantrill in chief command.

MRS. ZERELDA SAMUEL, JESSE JAMES' MOTHER.

under abolitionist influences. When about 20 years old he emigrated to Kansas Territory, where he taught one term of school. In Ohio he had been a youthful schoolmaster. Aged Kansas who attended his school in the territory state that he was a good teacher, so we shall let that one white point do what it may by way of offsetting his predominantly red record. Mr. Connelley shows that at the time when Quantrill pretended to have lost his beloved imaginary brother and to have begun killing the murderers by the center-shot process, the Ohio youth was in a Kansas settlement stealing things from a colony of boyhood friends, who had come out from Canal Dover, O., to settle in the State of Kansas.

Those who would justify Quantrill in slightest degree by reason of any wrongs he ever suffered have not a soot spade of ground upon which to stand. Here was a Northern man leading a body of Southerners, an abolitionist-reared Ohioan pretending to serve the cause of the South, because he hated abolitionists; a fairly well-educated young man who, before the South seceded, became an associate and accomplice of the most ignorant and vulgar and vicious of the Kansas pioneer flatboats; and who, after the war began, kept up his pretense of being a Southerner and actually caused his followers to believe him such. Quantrill entered guerrillaism as an avenue of escape from the consequences of his own pre-war crimes. Renegade is one term which partly describes the man Quantrill.

Of the abnormality of this man there can be no question. He was not in any sense an ordinary human being. The conditions on the border, in the midst of which maelstrom of blood and terror he deified for years before the war, could not have produced the Quantrill we know. They contributed, but back of this environment was something deeper, darker, more dreadful.

The scourge and terror of the border undoubtedly inherited certain unconquerable tendencies toward a career of crimson violence. His father was an embittered man. One of his brothers became a thief. An uncle was one of the most spectacular criminals of the generation preceding the Civil War, being a confidence man and a forger, serving sentences in several State prisons; he married and deserted six women, and attempted to murder the woman who had been his first wife; he defrauded people right and left, and for offenses petty or serious he saw the insides of jails in St. Louis, Cincinnati, New Orleans and other cities. Quantrill's paternal grandfather was a thief of sharp practices in horse-trading and was a professional gambler; a brother of this progenitor was a pirate. If we must offer "excuse" for Quantrill's blood-thirstiness, let us look to his heredity.

Quantrill's biggest and bloodiest exploit was the sacking of Law-

CLARENCE DARROW'S ATTACK ON TENNESSEE'S ANTI-EVOLUTION LAW

Statute Boldest Attack on Learning Since Middle Ages, He Tells Court — Defense Lawyer, in Scorching Speech, Declares Bryan Cares Nothing for Science Except to Throttle It to Death.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
DAYTON, Tenn., July 14.—Yesterday was Darrow day at the Scopes trial. Confronted with a jury of hickory-shirted fundamentalists and a methodically confident prosecution, the defense, nevertheless, managed to convert the session into a spectacular demonstration against religious fanaticism in general, and the constitutionality of the Tennessee anti-evolution law in particular. Last night found the state disturbed over the heroic proportions which the defense had suddenly assumed, largely by reason of a masterly address by Clarence Darrow, but still easily confident that the young high school teacher would be convicted and the statute upheld.

It was a day full of powder and flame, and William J. Bryan, the special prosecutor, was painfully scorched in several explosions. Dayton, after weeks of bowing and scraping before him, suddenly found itself tingling with horror and fascination to hear the great man scathingly assailed as one "who is either profoundly ignorant of the Constitution, or profoundly contemptuous of those rights which it guarantees." To make matters worse, it saw its champion debater, wit and Fugate, in the person of Clarence Darrow, who pulled up short and left gasping in mildair by a whiplike rebuke administered in open court by Dudley Field Malone, the dapper New York lawyer.

Arguments on Motion.
To be purely in arguments upon the defense motion to quash the indictment, upon the ground that the statute is unconstitutional and that the indictment itself is defective.

Those who spoke for the State were Attorney-General Tom Stewart, McKenize and Sue K. Hicks, while John R. Neal, former dean of the University of Tennessee Law School, and Arthur Garfield Hays Sulzberger, for the American Civil Liberties Union, and Darrow, argued the motion for Scopes.

Darrow's two-hour speech, which was cut short by adjournment, provided the fireworks for the day. It consisted of a sustained attack, not merely upon the statute, but merely upon Bryan, who, he said, was responsible for it, but upon the whole from the movement which aims to join church and State, by giving favored religious creeds the special sanction of special laws.

They were kindling, he declared, the fires of religious hate and bigotry, which had bathed the world in blood throughout recorded history, and were threatening to sweep away the guarantees of individual freedom of thought, conscience and expression which the framers of the Federal and State constitutions had striven so earnestly and fearfully to protect in those documents. He denounced Bryan to his face as "a man who never cared anything for science except to seize it by the throat and throttle it to death." Darrow, after his custom, began casually. He mentioned that he was from Chicago, that his associates, Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hays, were from New York, and then turning abruptly to the jury, he said, among prosecuting counsel, he ground out: "And the distinguished gentleman who is responsible for the passage of this foolish, mischievous and wicked law comes from Florida." "I find it hard to adjust myself to the issues in this case," he rumbled on. "It is difficult to put one's mind back into the sixteenth century, to realize that we are again in a fight which we thought was ended hundreds of years ago—the death struggle between a new and an ancient civilization."

"The Attorney-General has said that the State has the right to regulate the course of study in the public schools. The Constitution, it would have no right to prescribe a course of study that left out reading, writing and arithmetic. It could not prescribe a course which included nothing but religion. It could not, because, many years ago, when people still believed in liberty, and were not so sure of their own sophistries that they were willing to send everybody to jail who didn't agree with them, the framers of the Tennessee constitution wrote into that document certain guarantees of freedom."

"Under that document the Legislature couldn't prescribe a course of study that consisted of Genesis, of others, remote in space. They thought the earth was about 4000 years old at the beginning of the Christian era. We know it is millions of years old. They built the Bible as well as they knew.

DARROW AS SEEN BY CARICATURIST MAJOR.

"Man learns what he can, and supplements his knowledge with hope and faith. That is the province of religion, and I have no desire to interfere with it. Knowledge and science should complement and help each other, instead of fighting."

"This statute forbids the teaching of any theory which conflicts with the divine account in the Bible. Can your honor tell what this divine account is? No human being can. There are two conflicting accounts in the first chapter and various accounts and ideas scattered throughout it. Imagine making a criminal code so uncertain that every man must be sure he has read every word in the Bible and understand it before he can tell what he is not violating the law. Who is this chief mogul who is to tell us with the voice of authority which of these accounts is the right one and which interpretation is correct?"

"There are 500 Christian sects in the United States, all quarreling with each other over what the Bible means, and no two members of any one of them exactly agreeing on what it means."

Darrow was basing this phase of his argument on that clause of the constitution which provides that a law must be clear and definite enough so that a citizen can tell when he is violating it.

"Not a Chance in Court."

"My client, Scopes, is a school teacher," he continued. "Suppose he reads the Bible through, interprets it as best he can, and tries to make his teaching conform to it so that he will not violate this law. Then a fellow comes along and tells him he has made a bad guess on one point, and consequently has committed a crime. I tell you, there's not a chance in any court for a statute like that."

"If the desire of the Legislature was to outline a course of study, why didn't it tell him what he must teach? If that is what it means, why not tell him that man was created directly from the dust, and that woman was created from his rib? It doesn't do that. It expects him to know all about the beliefs of these 500 warring sects of Christians and which one of them is right and which are wrong. Such a thing was never heard of anywhere until the fundamentalists got to Tennessee. If they ever make their mad, wild, brave charge upon the intelligent people of some other state, they will have to change the form of the law."

The faces around the courtroom presented an entertaining study as the old grizzly bear crashed and slashed his lumbering way through the opposing lines. Bryan's feelings were apparent. With head back, mouth set in a grim line, eyes flaming and cheeks flushed, he showed that the blows were going home. Old "General" McKenize was obviously enjoying it. Attorney-General Stewart's chin was sunk on his chest and his eyes bent on the floor. The youthful assistants of the prosecution shifted uneasily.

One endeavored in vain to catch the reaction of the fundamentalist audience. Certainly they were fixed and spellbound, but whether from horror, fascination, wonder, admiration or the creeping advance of a dreadful doubt, it was impossible to know. Packed in to suffocation, they sat tense, open-mouthed, almost breathless. The only manifestation of sentiment was an occasional smothered giggle as Darrow loosed his blunt invective upon the movers of the law.

"A Strong Combination."

Taking up the allegation that the indictment is defective because of its vagueness, he continued:

"The Attorney-General says that Scopes knows why he is here. So do I. So do we all. He is here because the fundamentalists are after him. He's here because ignorance and bigotry are after every man who thinks. They are a strong combination. I am almost fearful of their strength."

"To be legal, an indictment must tell a man what crime he is charged with, what he did. It isn't enough to tell him that somewhere in Rhea County he taught to somebody a theory which conflicts with something which Moses wrote—maybe. We have examined every criminal case in the records of Tennessee and there never was an indictment like this on land or sea. You might as well indict a man on the ground that he's no good. What was the horrible thing that Scopes taught? It was what every scientific man in the world believes."

"Joshua made the sun stand still, the fundamentalists say, and they propose to make the ages roll back."

"This legislation, which contains all the mischief that human malice can concoct in void. Nothing has caused the bitterness, hatred, cruelty and the wars which religion has caused, particularly when religion was injected into state. Knowing that, the founders of this republic declared that religion should remain a matter between a man and his own conscience, where it belongs."

Takes Fling at Bryan.
"There are any number of creeds older and younger than the Christian, creed. Some are here, some have bided their time and passed away. Has the Mohammedan the right to come here and cherish his creed? Has the Buddhist the right to come here and cherish his? Of course they have. The constitution of Tennessee, copied from one which Jefferson wrote, clear, definite and direct, said that no act should ever be passed by the Legislature which would interfere with complete religious liberty. Let us say that I am a scientist. No (Darrow broke off with sarcastic emphasis), let us say I am 'pseudo-scientist' so named by a man (and he turned and faced Bryan fiercely), 'who cares nothing for science except to take it by the throat and throttle it to death.' Can the Legislature say to me, an astronomer, that I cannot turn my telescope on the Heavens, lest I discover that the earth is not the center of the universe?' It might, but for the fact that the words of Thomas Jefferson have been woven into every state constitution in the Union and I have stood like a flaming sword to protect men against ignorance and bigotry."

Darrow paused, and lowered his voice to apocalyptic tone.

"Must we call back those men from the grave to defend liberty once more?" he asked. "Was their mighty work not enough to protect you and me in this world, and which we supposedly had made from scratch?"

Bryan swallowed hard. His face was red and he brandished his palm-leaf fan defiantly. The courtroom fairly crackled with the tension. The Judge leaned across the desk, utterly absorbed. Darrow went on:

"Let us see whether this statute gives preference to a particular religious establishment. Here the intelligent people of Tennessee, school teachers, college professors, physicians, lawyers and judges, are going their way, a vast majority of them believing in evolution, seeing no inconsistency in doing so while believing in the gentle philosophy of the Nazarene—love your neighbor, treat each other like men, and the State handing out textbooks for years which taught evolution. Then along comes somebody and says to them: 'You've got to believe as I do. It's a crime for you to know more than I do, and they pass a law to inhibit learning. What's in their way?'"

"Nothing but the Constitution."

"Bible as Yardstick."

"They propose to measure every man's intellect, using the Bible as a yardstick. It's a travesty upon language, a travesty upon justice, and a travesty upon the Constitution. The life of every American citizen depends upon the tolerance of his fellow man. If men cannot be tolerant, if they cannot treat each other's opinions with respect, if they cannot live and let live, then no man's life is safe."

"This country is made up of men of every race and creed. If we are to begin this boring out, this saying, 'I am right and you are wrong,' this setting of sects and denominations against other, who is the man who is wise enough to make the decisions? Where is the man wise enough to say 'I'm going to heaven, and I'm going to take you with me whether you want to go or not.'"

Attacking the alleged lack of uniformity in the anti-evolution law, Darrow asked whether the Legislature could have provided that evolution could be taught in Chattanooga but not in Dayton. The Legislature could no more exclude evolution from the course of study than it could exclude reading

DEMOCRATS PREPARE FOR 1926 CAMPAIGN

Congressional Committee to Center Efforts Largely in the Close Districts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—With the Democrats already laying the foundation for a determined campaign to regain control of Congress, the 1926 Congressional elections give promise now of attracting an unusual share of national interest. Under the leadership of Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, the Democratic Congressional Committee has begun its organization work with a view to centering its efforts largely in what are generally regarded as the close districts.

At the same time, the Republican organization is preparing to meet the attacks in these centers and also to carry the fight to the enemy in a number of Democratic strongholds.

Returning today from organization meetings in Missouri and Indiana, Oldfield announced he would leave soon for a swing through the West on a similar mission. He will speak at gatherings of St. Louis Democratic leaders at Omaha, Denver, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles and San Francisco, Portland, Ore., Spokane and Seattle.

"Educate, organize, fight," is the message Oldfield will take to the meetings, and he will rail for the perfecting of the organization from State committees down to precinct bodies. Moreover, he will urge the Democrats to nominate the biggest Democrats that can be found in the districts, declaring that "no man is too big to run for Congress."

Not long after the Centennial slaughter Bill Anderson was killed in battle. George Todd, an Illinois man from Hannibal, who was a bricklayer in Kansas City before the war, succeeded to the command of Quantrill's forces when the latter lost his hold, and kept up the guerrilla adventures until a Federal bullet dropped him in a skirmish at Independence, Mo. Quantrill became active again late in 1864, gathered about him 33 of his old followers and invaded Kentucky. His band of the Mississippi River on New Year's day, 1865, at a point north of Memphis aptly named Devil's Elbow. Of the future border bandits, Frank James and Jim Younger were in the expedition to Kentucky.

Members of this final and fatal Quantrillian expedition supplied two explanations of the movement. Some of them averred that Quantrill hoped to make his way into the West, where he expected to join Gen. Robert E. Lee's army and enjoy the general immunity at the forthcoming inevitable surrender. He knew that if he surrendered or was captured in Missouri he would be hanged. Other guerrillas who went to Kentucky said in later years that Quantrill's purpose was to drive his flying wedge through to Washington, assassinate President Lincoln and thus become, as he fancied, the supreme "hero" of the war.

Quantrill was asleep in a hayloft on a farm in Spencer County, Kentucky when the Federal guerrilla outfit of Capt. Ed Terrill, a boy of 19, with a record remarkably had for one of his youthfulness, rode down upon him and his. The battle was swift and decisive. Quantrill received a wound which paralyzed his lower body. Twenty-seven days later he died in a hospital at Louisville.

Before his death he mentioned his mother and his sister, up in Ohio, as those to whom he wished to leave a considerable sum of cash which he had accumulated. But later he thought of Kate Clarke, a girl he had induced to ride away with him from her home in Jackson County, Mo., and with whom he had lived in Howard County, that State, most of the summer of 1864, letting Todd and Anderson carry on the guerrilla warfare. Quantrill forgot mother and sister and bequeathed his money to his mistress, and she opened in St. Louis a house of ill repute, which was notorious for some years following the end of the war.

Of Bill Anderson our surviving friend, Jim Cummins, has this to say: "My first idea of this man was that he was the most desperate man I ever saw, and I've never had any reason to change my opinion of him."

And, as all of us must admit, Jim Cummins has seen quite a considerable number of desperate men in his day!

Quantrill, Anderson, Todd—tutors of Jesse James and the rest of the original James-Younger band of border bandits! Quantrill was a good teacher—in a little log schoolhouse out on the Kansas plains before the war.

PARK TOURIST CAMP CLOSES TOMORROW

Space to Be Beautified for Picnic Grounds—Modern Pay Place Opened.

The automobile tourist camp in Forest Park will be closed permanently tomorrow.

Park Commissioner Pape today said the camp, as used in the last few years, has become a blot on the beauty of the park and that the more recent type of tourist has been neither commercially nor socially beneficial to the city.

The camp occupies about two acres west of the zoo grounds, between Government and Wells drives. This space will be beautified with shrubbery and grass and used henceforth for additional picnic grounds.

Last year about 14,000 tourists in 3000 cars used the camp, but the daily average this year has greatly diminished.

"In former years there was a much better class of tourists," the Park Commissioner stated. "but this class has diminished. Those who now come are for the most part auto hoboes in small cars, many without money to buy oil and gas and who annoy the Park Department with requests to remain beyond the allotted time, which was three days."

A pay camp, with modern facilities for automobile tourists, opened today on St. Charles road, about one mile west of Wainwright. This camp is an incorporated private enterprise, established and sponsored by the Associated Clubs' Tourist Committee, the St. Louis and Missouri Automobile Clubs and the Wellston Chamber of Commerce. One dollar per car a day will be charged tourists. In return for which they will have facilities and comforts that were not available in the Forest Park Camp.

Pape said he had no interest in the new camp, but likes the idea and hopes other private camps will be established on other State highways entering St. Louis.

SHANGHAI, July 14.—A crowd of about 1000 strikers assembled yesterday outside the offices of the General Labor Union demanding overdue strike pay. As the money was not forthcoming, the strikers threatened the union officials. The crowd was dispersed only after a detachment of volunteers, called by the officials, appeared on the scene with drawn arms.

STOCK TRADE AGAIN LIGHT; TONE BETTER

Reduction in Call Money Rate Helps Market — Favorable News Exerts Influence.

Leased Wire from the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 14.—The Evening Post in its copyrighted financial review today says:

the reduction in the call money to 4 per cent after the fixing of the rate at 3 per cent by the Federal Reserve Bank. The stimulus to the stock market was immediate. The stock exchange today. In consequence the market declined. The volume of business in light total transactions reached approximately 100 million shares. Some effort was made early in the day to bring about a resumption of yesterday's trading but that failed. The market decline were unable to induce liquidation, and proceeded to recover as the day advanced. The development, together with the favorable news of the day, rendered responsible for a stronger tone in the market. The market was held within a comparatively narrow range, but prices advanced. The day was characterized by levels. Here and there, of course, recessions were to be noted. In Cast Iron Pipe, which suffered from a spell.

Endorse Improves Steadily.
Trading was dull during the latter part of the forenoon, but the interest of the industrial leaders, resulting a lack of interest on the part of operators who had been attracted to the market by the matter of fact, the turnover in American Can, Baldwin, Steel coal and other pivotal issues was usually light. Dodge Brothers shares continued one of the spectacular features, changing hands heavily in response to favorable estimates of its semi-annual earnings, statements which also was inclined to do better, but buying of a forceful order ran more to the public side. The National Industrial American and Electric Power light, along with numerous specialties, General Railway Signal, Western Union, the mail order retail stores, shares and International Telephone & Telegraph. Some of the high-priced, rate stocks, such as American Telephone and Telegraph, and Western Union, and the Steel and Lead, Erie issues bid up to new high levels. Generally, however, under pressure, however, as the outcome of the election response rate heard until the fall.

Foreign News Briefs. The recovery was galvanized by good news from many sources. The foreign trade statistics showed that the annual trade value of imports and exports was above the same month a year earlier, and that the monthly increase was the largest for any previous month, except the last fiscal year. For the year both exports and imports were up 10.5 per cent over the previous five years, and resulted in a trade balance of $1,012,681,497. Leadings for the next several months are being set at 10 per cent compared with the previous year. The distribution is held up to record levels for the year. News from the oil industry indicates that oil prices will be higher in the Middle East and demand for crude results in premiums in some sections.

Foreign Exchange Quiet. The Scandinavian currencies continue to be a feature of the foreign exchange market, but they are probably reaching the highest level over three years at 20.93 cents. Grain, however, also showed a marked increase. France's grain was rather heavy but made fair return at a moderate amount of loss later in the day. Paris markets were closed for a holiday. Heavy selling of the franc was said to have done much to depress London. The market showed powers of absorption, however, and the rate held firmly at the opening level of 4.99.

Grain Prices Irregular. Wheat fluctuated erratically throughout the day, opening slightly higher, and after spurring ahead to a level for the first time in 1932, settled back to levels at losses of 1 to 1 1/4 cents on may were showing. Disappearing cables were offset by increasing reports of cables in transit, but on the advance realizing was unencountered. Publication of the cotton competition report turned out to be what the trade had been expecting and exerted little influence on the market. The market placed consumption in June at 3,465,021 bales, against 3,314,471 bales in 1935, and 3,580,021 in June last year. Excluding the output of manufacturing establishments set down to 1,123,912 bales, the 1936 total was 2,341,109 bales last month against 2,190,560 in 1935 and 2,456,109 in 1936. Warehouse stocks were 949,547 bales. Warehouse sales were sharply curtailed in June with last month and a slight increase in May.

Annotated Page.
YORK, July 14.—The influence of money rates continued to find its way in broad trading today, reacting on prices and holding price movements within narrow limits. Volume of the money still rather limited. Liborated of investment slightly and the demand was lower. Indisputable strength was shown by the Dollar, British, and others, which because of their money's record earnings in the first half of the year. Delaware & Hudson continued to lead in the money market in the stock. Oil company was the most active in the market. Increased gasoline prices. The American municipal 7 1/2 per cent bond was bid for at a price of 107 1/2 and a new issue of $20,000,000 at a price of 80, to be paid in 1920.

ROW IN BELLEVILLE
OVER MARRIAGE FEES

One Justice to Sue Sheriff for Barring His Solicitor From Courthouse.

Justice of the Peace McCauley of Belleville announced today that he had retained an attorney to prepare a suit for $10,000 damages against Sheriff Martin Schnipper and County Clerk Lillian Hoerr because his Constable has been barred from visiting the courthouse, soliciting, for his court, the business of marrying couples after obtaining marriage licenses.

The judge says he is convinced that he is being discriminated against because he is a Democrat, while the county officers are Republicans. Because of this alleged discrimination, he holds, he is not getting his share of the marrying business, in proportion as it accrues to the four other Belleville Justices of the Peace. Hence, he has retained Paul Farthing, a blind lawyer of East St. Louis, to prepare the damage suit.

Constables Keenly Alert.

Whatever the contentions, there is no dispute that the Constables of the Belleville Justice courts have been keenly alert in their watch for couples visiting the County Clerk's marriage license bureau. Couples arriving in automobiles or alighting from the street car in the public square before the courthouse are attracted quickly to their practiced eyes.

Recently, Justice McCauley says, his Constable, John Gaudin, met a couple at the street car and offered to escort them to the License Bureau. There, he says, Sheriff Schnipper met the Constable and informed him that he would "not tolerate such an action," which was "a disgrace" and an "unnecessary annoyance" to the couples visiting Belleville to get married.

Charges as to County Clerk.

On other occasions, Justice McCauley contends, he has sent couples to County Clerk Hoerr and she has refused them licenses because of their different politics, he says.

The Sheriff says the practice is a nuisance and ought to be stopped. The County Clerk admits having refused licenses in instances, and adds it was because the applicants were too young.

VISITS CITY AFTER 30 YEARS

OMAHA, Neb., July 14.—Henry P. Morris, who has dwelt in a cave in the midst of a large forest south of Omaha for 30 years, has paid his first visit to this city and civilization since the days "Buffalo Bill" conducted his wild west shows here.

An Omaha newspaper brought the hermit to Omaha where he found cause for wonder and also alarm in his first sight of the automobile, the elevator and the motion picture. His experiences were perplexing to him. He did not understand how "a voice could travel without wires," let alone the complicated mechanism of a telephone, and the fast moving pace of the present day world, seen after 30 years of seclusion, led him to wonder if the new ways were the best. Morris expressed disapproval of prohibition and evolution.

MRS. BARBARA KAESER DIES AT HOME IN HIGHLAND, ILL.

Was Widow of One of Founders of the Helvetia Milk Condensing Co.

Mrs. Barbara Kaeser, widow of William K. Kaeser, one of the founders and chief stockholders of the Helvetia Milk Condensing Co., died suddenly at her home in Highland, Ill., yesterday. She was 72 years old. Kaeser died several years ago.

Mrs. Kaeser had appeared to be in excellent health and had cooked her own breakfast. She was sitting in a chair reading a newspaper when her daughter, Miss Ida Freuler, who resided with her, noticed that she seemed to be asleep. Miss Freuler tried to arouse her and discovered she was dead. Heart disease was given as the cause of her death.

Mrs. Kaeser owned some stock in the milk concern, but never had been active in the management of its affairs. At her husband's death his holdings were divided among her and several of his children by a former marriage. Besides Miss Freuler, Mrs. Kaeser is survived by another daughter, Mrs. William Huning of St. Louis; a son, Albert Freuler of Lamar, Colo., and two sisters, Mrs. Emily Kretschmar and Mrs. Louise Hagmann of St. Louis. Funeral services will be held from the residence to the Evangelical Church at the opposite direction.

3 p.m. tomorrow and burial will be in the Highland Cemetery.

CAMPAIGN FOR
U. S. SENATORSHIP
ON IN MISSOURI

Congressman Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, and Senator George H. Williams, Republican, the Candidates.

MORE THAN YEAR BEFORE 1926 PRIMARY

Each to Have Considerable Advantage Over Possible Opponents for the Party Nominations.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.
With the Democratic and Republican Senatorial campaigns in Missouri forced into full swing more than a year before the 1926 primary election, a campaign of almost unprecedented length will provide a surfeit of politics.
Congressman Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, and Senator George H. Williams, Republican, have adopted about the same tactics, the purpose of each being to attempt to outdistance any possible competitors so early in the race that any others who may be ambitious to contest with them for the nominations will lose heart.

While there is no certainty that either will have serious opposition, there is a possible contest for each sitting just around the corner, apparently watching to see just how much strength Hawes and Williams will succeed in developing. For Williams the now threatened opponent is former Gov. Hyde. For Hawes it is Charles M. Hyde.

Williams, who was appointed senator by Gov. Baker to succeed the late Senator Spencer, has been engaged for several weeks in getting influential Republicans to commit to his candidacy. The idea being that if a sufficient number were committed other ambitious Republicans will not consider it worth while to contest with him.

Several weeks ago Williams had chosen or so party leaders from different sections of the State in St. Louis. Last Saturday he met another group in Kansas City. It was conspicuously noticeable, however, that Hyde was not in attendance at either gathering.

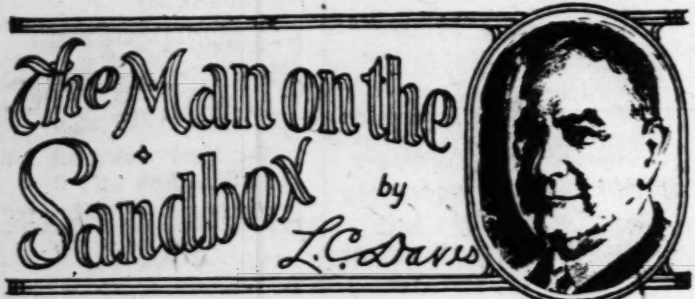

The report is that Hyde confided to intimate friends that he wished to be entirely free to take any action that might appeal to him later on. As there is none of the Hyde faction except Hyde himself who is even mentioned for the senatorship, this attitude of the former Governor has been construed to mean that he is holding himself in reserve to oppose Williams if there appears a chance to defeat him.

Hyde's strength uncertain.
What Hyde's present strength may be is problematical. In the coming year or so of term of office, he was able, notwithstanding the opposition of many of the old ward leaders, to control the party organization, and to manipulate the State convention. It is not probable that he has that strength today. Then he was Governor, through usual political methods his appointees controlled the selection of a majority of the delegates to the convention.

Now many of these appointees have their allegiance to Gov. Baker, and it may be assumed that in the senatorship contest, if one should develop between Williams and Gov. Baker, Baker will throw the political power of the administration to Williams. This might mean a controlling power if the Hyde faction was in better standing with the party in St. Louis.

In fact, neither Hyde nor Williams is very popular with the organization workers.
Practical politicians would agree that Williams has long lead over Hyde in St. Louis and St. Louis County. Williams, while personally not particularly strong with the St. Louis organization, has the support of Fred Eason, boss in St. Louis County. Eason probably will be able to work things around so that Williams will lose little if any of the St. Louis organization.

Recruiter for Williams.
In Kansas City Saturday members of both factions in Jackson county participated in the conference. R. R. Brewster, Republican nominee for Senator in 1922 and a close friend of Hyde, definitely stepped up for Williams for the nomination and urged united support of the party for him.
Barring the possibility of unfavorable developments during the campaign, Williams can be counted on as a favorable one. He can be counted on as an "independent" Republican in Republican politics; that is, he is known to champion for MONK vs. MAN.

"W HAT makes you look so blue, so blue?"
Said Homo-on-Parade.

"They tell me I am kin to you,"

"That ought to make you swell with pride,"
Said Homo-on-Parade.

"It makes me think of suicide,"
The Sprightly Monkey said.

"You may be the cat's pajamas but you soak yourself in rum, and you do a lot of strutting when you're nothing but a bum. You may be a trifle bigger but I'll tell the world, b' gum, I'm a better man than you are, Gunga Din."

"Where did you get that funny face?"
Said Homo-on-Parade.

"I got it from the human race,"
The Sprightly Monkey said.

"That mug of yours would stop a clock,"
Said Homo-on-Parade.

"It was the best they had in stock,"
The Sprightly Monkey said.

"Although with fatal beauty I have never been endowed, and no one would mistake me for Apollo in a crowd, I have terminal facilities of which I'm rather proud. But, I think I'll have it bobbed tomorrow morning."

With Bryan and Darrow absorbing the limelight, Brother Scopes has to be content with the obscure role of bone of contention.

In the meanwhile the famous drug store in Dayton, Tenn., is busy dispensing monkey parafats at the soda fountain.
